3. System IV Mission in the Far East - [REDACTED] raised the question whether it would not be useful to run a System IV mission in the Far East during periods of bad weather. Mr. Cunningham said that unfortunately OSA did not have an operable System IV, and that in any event, System IV is not compatible with the J-75 U-2 configuration available to us. It is not likely that we would be able to borrow a System IV from SAC or, if we could, that we would be able to use it in one of the [REDACTED]

4. Francis Gary Powers Developments - The latest episode in the melodrama is that Frank desires to have a book published on his experiences. This obviously leads to all sorts of legal, security and political questions. At the moment all this is Mr. Houston's problem.

5. OSA Organization - In response to a question from Dr. Scoville, Mr. Cunningham said there had been little internal flak resulting from OSA's recent internal reorganization except for a complaint from the Weather Staff that it should be assigned to the AD and not to the Operations Division. Mr. Cunningham said he thought he could smooth out this situation. Dr. Scoville commented that he thought as a normal procedure it would be desirable for him to know about and comment on such organizational changes before they actually took place. Colonel Giller commented on the necessity to get these changes officially recognized in the Agency to prevent confusion in various kinds of IBM runs on personnel and financial matters.
